

We understand the true value of your crops.

Assail. Premium protection from codling moth and other apple-destroying pests.

We know that every apple is precious. That is why we want to help you get started on the right track to protect your apples from first generation codling moth damage. Research shows when Assail® insecticide is used first in a codling moth program, followed by other insecticide treatments, Assail offers the best protection and the cleanest fruit.

Growers know that Assail not only provides superior control of codling moth, but also aphids, apple maggots and more. So choose Assail. Because you're not just protecting your apples. You're protecting your livelihood.
